

unit 1

So with 24-bit names for pixels, we can have $2^{24}=16,777,216$ different names, i.e., that many different colors.

I get how that's easy for a computer to handle, but what about for people?

unit 1

One solution is to use words for names, like “dodger blue”